Testimonials

- a breeders take on speckle park -

This is what your fellow breeders experience when working with the Speckle Park breed. The hearty, reliable performance of Speckle Park cattle is witnessed by breeders across Canada.

Kara & Nita Wilson, Alberta, Canada

"We raise our cattle on native grass pastures. Having efficient hearty cattle is key to our operation. Since introducing Speckle Park genetics into our herd, we have also noticed increased calving ease and calf vigor."

Ty & Ingrid Johnston, BC, Canada

"In British Columbia it makes sense to grass-finish our cattle. We see grass as our strength on our ranch and the Speckle Park breed compliments our program perfectly. We're really proud of our product."

Leigh & Anita McKain, Barrhead County, Alberta, Canada

"We have been utilizing Speckle Park bulls for over 15 years, and the quality of our calves just keeps improving. Speckle Park cows are easy-keeping, docile, and hard-working, putting everything into their calves. They are easy calving, and the calves are up sucking within 5-10 minutes. We've enjoyed working with this breed a great deal and have no regrets about switching our herd from the mainstream breeds we used to run."

Aaron & Pam Tjepkemas, Fort St John, British Columbia, Canada

"Our beef clients have always been honest with us, but when we sold the meat from our Speckle Park steers, someone reached out to us to say that even though they have always had a good experience with their beef, they wanted to know why the most recent beef purchased was extra good. It was the Speckle Park steers that made the difference.

From the butcher shop perspective, above all else, what we love about the Speckle Park-influence cattle is their fat distribution. Fat is dispersed between the cuts and within the cuts and they produce less waste. In contrast, other breeds of beef cattle with comparable carcass weights of 750 to 800 pounds, consistently produce 150 pounds of excess waste product and much of their fat is laid down along their topline.

Additionally, in our cowherd, we have experimented with several crosses, and we have found the 1,100-to-1,200-pound Speckle Park-influence cows to be most efficient, weaning comparable calf weights on less feed, relative to heavier cows."

FAQs

Where did Speckle Park originate?

Canada. Speckle Park was not imported into Canada from anywhere - We are Real Canadian! Speckle Park started in the Canadian province of Saskatchewan and were then developed in the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.  [Learn more ]

When did Speckle Park come into existence?

In the early 1960's.  [Learn more ]

What breeds make up Speckle Park?

British breeds! The original speckled heifer is understood to have been the descendant of Teeswater Shorthorns and a bull of the white park colour pattern. These animals gave Speckle Park their distinctive colour patterns. These were then consistently bred to black Angus to create what is now known as 'Speckle Park'.  [Learn more ]

Why would one want to raise Speckle Park?

Speckle Park consistently and efficiently produce medium sized high quality well marbled carcasses without any excess of back fat. Speckle Park have other traits which make them attractive to cattlemen: calving ease, vigorous calves, polled, quiet, easy keeping.  [Learn more ]

Are Speckle Park distinct breed?

Yes. Speckle Park are a purebred breed! On July 6 of 2006, Speckle Park were granted distinct breed status by the Canadian Minister of Agriculture according to the terms of Canada's Animal Pedigree Act.

Who registers Speckle Park?

The Canadian Speckle Park Association registers Speckle Park cattle and the Canadian Livestock Records Corporation in Ottawa, Canada, is the Association's Registrar.

 [Read more about the Canadian Livestock Records Corporation ]

Will the Canadian Association register Speckle Park born in countries other than Canada?

Yes. The Canadian Speckle Park Association is pleased to assist breeders in other countries by registering their Speckle Park born outside of Canada. Their registration of course must be in accordance with the Association's rules of eligibility.

Where can I find the rules of eligibility for registering Speckle Park?

The rules of eligibility for registering Speckle Park cattle are stated in the By-laws of the Canadian Speckle Park Association. Speckle Park are registered in three categories – purebred, percentage and appendix. Upon first reading the details may seem overwhelming. For clarification and to talk it through, please contact the Association's office.  [Click here to download the bylaws \(PDF\) ]

 [Contact the Association's office ]

Do I have to be a Canadian to be a member of the Canadian Association?

No! The Canadian Association welcomes none Canadian members. All members receive regular email updates, notices of annual general meetings, by-law amendments, and newsletters.
